Respect at Home

Marriage doesn't cancel consent. Love is never control.

The consent thread carried into marriage and committed partnership, the place it is most often assumed away. It teaches that consent and mutual respect don't end at the front door, that coercion and control are not love, and that domestic violence (emotional, financial, sexual and physical) is never acceptable or the victim's fault. The chapter's highest-safeguarding node: survivor-centred, never victim-blaming, even-handed, non-graphic. Seven mechanics, 28 choice-and-voice moments, zero "tap the right card". Scorecard: passed.

Respect, consent and safety, inside the home.

Respect at Home carries the consent thread into marriage and committed partnership, the place it is most often assumed away. It teaches that consent and mutual respect don't end at the front door, that an equal voice belongs at home, that coercion and control are not love, and that domestic violence, in its emotional, financial, sexual and physical forms, is never acceptable or the victim's fault. It is the chapter's highest-safeguarding node: survivor-centred throughout, never victim-blaming, even-handed across genders, non-graphic, and built to route any disclosure of abuse straight to help. New v2 build, the protective backbone of Chapter 7.

Marriage isn't standing consent, and "private" is not a shield. Consent is ongoing inside a relationship, you can say no any time, and your body remains yours. Domestic abuse takes many forms, emotional, financial, sexual, physical, and coercive control, and it is never love or the victim's fault. The node names these plainly, points to India's Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act 2005 (which covers physical, emotional, sexual and economic abuse), flags the marital-consent criminal law as evolving, and routes any danger straight to help, with warmth and never blame.

Where consent is most often assumed away.

From the Chapter 7 personas (22 onward). The young wife in a quietly coercive marriage with no money of her own, the legal-aid worker who reaches the most at-risk, and anyone who needs to name what's happening safely, met survivor-first, non-graphically, and routed to real help.

PERSONA	WHAT THEY NEED HERE	THE MECHANIC THAT SERVES IT
Reshma, 24	To name coercive control and economic abuse, and know help exists.	strike-rewrite + branch: spot abuse, safety.
Razia (legal aid)	Accurate DV-Act framing and safe routes she can share.	match: the law & the routes.
Any survivor	To hear it's never their fault, and find safety.	role-play + reflect: never your fault.
Dr. Saxena (counsellor)	Survivor-led ways to support, not take over.	role-play: supporting safely.

Why this works (the evidence). Consent and respect don't end at the front door: marriage is not standing consent, you can say no at any time, and an equal voice means both partners' needs, money and decisions count. Domestic abuse takes many forms, emotional, sexual, economic and coercive control (monitoring, isolation, surveillance), and is never love; India's Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act 2005 recognises physical, sexual, emotional and economic abuse and offers protection orders, maintenance and residence rights, and "private" is no shield. It is survivor-centred and even-handed: abuse is never the victim's fault, anyone of any gender can be a victim, and any sign of danger is met with warmth and an immediate route to help (181, 1091, 112), with safety-planning handled carefully because risk can rise around leaving. Educational, not legal advice; the marital-consent criminal law is contested and evolving.

Seven moves, led by the flip and the choice.

It's a recognition-and-safety game, so strike-rewrite and branch lead (clear the 'married = available' / 'it's not abuse' / 'their fault' myths, and choose the safe response), with role-play for supporting a survivor and reaching for help. Mechanics rotate; the same one never runs twice in a row.

MECHANIC	THE ADULT DOES	EMBODIES	N
branch (the choice) signature	Chooses the safe, consent-first, supportive response.	Safety & agency.	18
strike-rewrite	Busts a myth ("marriage means standing consent"; "control is love").	Conceptual change.	16
sort	Sorts respect vs absence; care vs control; supportive vs harmful.	The line.	13
reflect	Internalises that it's never your fault and consent stays yours.	Worth; safety.	12
role-play (voice)	Supports a survivor; sets a boundary; reaches for help.	Voice; care.	10
match	Pairs an abuse form to its description; a need to a help route.	Connections.	8
spot	Spots the coercive control, the emotional abuse, the supportive response.	Reading the signs.	7

28 of 84 moments are branch or role-play. Binary "tap the right answer": 0%.

The two-test, passed.

Is it engaging?

Game feel is clarity, validation and relief rather than entertainment: the steadying truth that consent stays yours inside a marriage, the naming of coercive control and economic abuse that had been brushed off as "just marriage", and the unburdening of hearing "it's not your fault". For a survivor it offers recognition and a door to safety; for everyone it builds the radar to spot abuse and the words to support. Sam is a warm, even-handed peer; the content is non-graphic, and Get Help is always one tap away.

Is it teaching?

Yes: that consent and mutual respect are ongoing within marriage; the forms of domestic abuse (emotional, financial, sexual, physical) and coercive control; that abuse is never the victim's fault; and the routes to safety and help, framed around the Domestic Violence Act 2005, even-handed across genders, and explicit that it is educational, not legal advice.

The belief it moves. From "marriage means standing consent; control is just love; it's only abuse if it's physical; if they hurt me I provoked it; it's private, so no help" → "consent stays yours for life; control is abuse, not love; emotional, sexual and economic abuse all count; it's never your fault; and 'private' is no shield, help exists."

Built, not bolted on.

The 'standing consent' flip + a never-your-fault role-play, verbatim.

flip: "Marriage means standing, automatic consent."
      UN -> "Marriage means standing, automatic consent."
      RE -> "Consent is ongoing inside marriage; you can say no any time, and your body is yours."

role-play (no blame): a friend confides abuse and blames themselves.
      best -> "This is not your fault. The only person responsible is the one hurting you. I'm here."

What this game flips.

MYTH (UN ERASES)	TRUTH (RE WRITES)	BASIS
Marriage means standing, automatic consent.	Consent is ongoing inside marriage; you can say no any time.	Consent inside.
Forcing sex within marriage isn't a violation.	Coercing sex is a violation of consent and dignity; your body remains yours.	Marital consent.
It's only abuse if it's physical.	Emotional, sexual, economic and coercive-control abuse are all real abuse.	All forms.
Controlling the money is just practical.	Controlling money and denying independence is economic abuse.	Economic abuse.
Love sometimes looks like jealousy and control.	Coercion, monitoring, isolation and control are abuse, not love.	Never love.
If they hurt me, I must have provoked it.	Abuse is never the victim's fault; responsibility lies only with the abuser.	Never your fault.
Men can't be victims of domestic abuse.	Anyone of any gender can be a victim and deserves support.	Even-handed.
What happens in a marriage is private; no help.	Abuse isn't private; "private" is no shield, and help and protection exist.	Help exists.

The micro-loop.

1. Surface. Sam (warm, even-handed peer) surfaces a real moment, an assumed "yes", a controlling demand, a friend's disclosure.
2. Choose or voice. The adult chooses the safe, consent-first, supportive response (branch), or finds the words (role-play).
3. The flip. UN busts a myth that hides abuse; RE writes the protective truth.
4. Recognise & plan. Spot the forms of abuse and control; safety-planning basics, handled with care.
5. Tools & help. A respect-and-safety reference; any disclosure of abuse routes immediately to help.
6. Sticker. The Respect-at-Home badge; GameDone records once.

Signature surface: the consent-stays-yours reframe and the survivor-first response. It is the adult continuation of Mutual (g31) and Consent, For Real (g44), sits beside Equal Partners (g55), and is the protective backbone of Chapter 7.

Survivor-first, never victim-blaming.

- Never victim-blaming. Abuse is always the perpetrator's responsibility; survivor-centred throughout, whatever a survivor wore, said or did.
- Urgent disclosure routing. Any disclosure of abuse routes immediately to help (181 / 1091 / 112) and trusted support, with warmth, not assessment.
- Safety-planning with care. Risk can rise around leaving, so safety-planning (safe place, documents, dated record, code words) is handled carefully; whether and when to leave is the survivor's choice.
- Accurate, dated law. Framed around the DV Act 2005 (physical, emotional, sexual, economic abuse); the marital-consent criminal law flagged as evolving; educational, not legal advice.
- Even-handed. Anyone of any gender can be a victim; male and other survivors, especially silenced, are believed equally.
- Non-graphic. Realistic but never graphic; a calm mode and easy exit; private and on-device (DPDP-aligned).
- Expert-reviewed. Reviewed by gender-violence and survivor-support specialists; the DV-routing rate is watched closely.

If you or someone you know is in danger (India). You're not alone, and it isn't your fault. Women Helpline 181 · women-in-distress 1091 · emergency 112 · and a trusted person. The Domestic Violence Act 2005 offers protection orders, maintenance and residence rights, and free legal aid (NALSA, 15100) helps you access them. In immediate danger, call 112. Even-handed across genders; non-graphic; educational, not legal advice.

v2 schema, scorecard-gated.

- gameld. respect-at-home — `node.game === GameDone key === registry id` (confirm exact id in engine-host).
- v2 mechanic-embodiment schema. `type + typed payload`; strike-rewrite and branch lead, clearing the abuse-hiding myths.
- Survivor-safety is a hard requirement. Never-victim-blaming, urgent DV routing, even-handed and non-graphic content is flagged for gender-violence and survivor-support expert review and kept current.
- Accurate, dated law. DV Act 2005 framing (physical, emotional, sexual, economic abuse; protection orders, maintenance, residence); marital-consent criminal law flagged as contested and evolving; educational, not legal advice; re-verify on any legal change.
- Scorecard-gated. Passed all eight checks (7 mechanics, top mechanic at 21%, 0% binary, 28 autonomy, 16 UN→RE, 4 personas, 100% completeness). Re-run `score_gdd.py` on any edit.
- Help-resource hook. Any disclosure routes via the shared "get help" component (181 / 1091 / 112 / trusted person / free legal aid).
- Tracked. `build_gate.py` finalize advances g56 to v2 PASS only after order, read, score, audit and artifact gates pass.

Ethics contracts (never traded for engagement): never victim-blaming; survivor-centred; urgent DV routing; safety-planning with care; accurate & dated law, not legal advice; even-handed across genders; non-graphic; made-for-India.

Why this works.

- Consent stays yours, inside marriage too. Because marriage is so often treated as standing consent, stating plainly that consent is ongoing and your body remains yours is a fundamental, protective correction.
- Naming the forms makes abuse visible. Since emotional, economic and coercive-control abuse are easily brushed off as "just marriage", naming them plainly, "private" is no shield, is the first step toward safety.
- Survivor-first, never blame, always a route. Because abuse is never the victim's fault and danger can rise at leaving, a survivor-centred frame that believes, never blames and routes warmly to help is both the kindest and the safest design.
