Look how clearly you see now

The Chapter 4 graduation (ages 12-15), the first teen chapter's landing.
A near-peer sticker-book finale that lights up a teen city skyline, revisiting eleven big truths, body and feelings, consent and gender, safety and media, as a constellation called Reading Relationships.
Eleven truths, eleven victory laps, zero tests. Scorecard: passed.

The Chapter 4 graduation.

Reading Relationships closes Chapter 4 (ages 12-15), the chapter where relationships got real. Like every capstone it consolidates and celebrates, never tests, here lighting up a teen city skyline as it revisits the eleven big truths the teen grew into, body and feelings, consent and gender, safety and media. The register is near-peer and reflective: the theme is "look how clearly you see now."

Why it works. Revisiting the chapter after a gap is spaced retrieval, which consolidates durably; replaying each truth through a fresh mechanic adds the variable-cue boost. For teens the evidence stresses celebrating growth and autonomy, "look how clearly you see now", over any grade, which builds the resilience and self-trust the coming years will need. So this capstone is reflective and proud, never a test.

Eleven truths, grown into.

The heart of the capstone: eleven stickers rising into a "Reading Relationships" constellation. Tapping each replays its one big truth, spaced, near-peer, never graded.

STAR	FROM	THREAD	THE BIG TRUTH IT REPLAYS
body-confident	g21 Body Confident	A	Your changing body is yours; confidence grows from facts and self-kindness, not comparison.
bounce-spark	g39 Bounce	C	Stress and low moods pass; you have coping tools, and showing up for a friend matters.
plan-it	g22 Plan It	F	You understand fertility, pregnancy and contraception, and can plan your future with care.
outbreak-shield	g23 Outbreak	F	You know how STIs and HIV really spread, and don't, so you stay safe and stay kind.
green-red-light	g24 Green Light / Red Light	B	You read the green lights of respect and red flags of control, and you deserve the green.
mythbuster	g25 MythBuster: Gender	E	The gender myths teens hear aren't facts, and you bust them on sight.
equalize	g26 Equalize	E	Equality lifts everyone, not a contest; child marriage is a rights issue you can help prevent.
stand-up	g27 Stand Up	B	From bystander to upstander, safely, with the five Ds and the helplines.
firewall	g40 Firewall	B	You keep yourself safe online, spotting grooming and pressure; and if you're ever targeted, it's not your fault and you know where to get help.
rabbit-hole	g43 The Rabbit Hole	E/G	You see the online-misogyny funnel and grift, and choose a real, positive masculinity.
reality-check	g28 Reality Check	G	You read the feed, real, staged, faked or false, and know screen sex is a performance.

Five reflective beats.

1. Arrive & light up. Lensy: "look how far you've grown." The teen city skyline switches on, skill by skill.
2. Look back. The eleven-star constellation; tap each to revisit its truth (consolidate).
3. Play back. Eleven light victory laps drawn from the chapter, framed as confident "you've got this" moments, no score, no fail.
4. Reflect & celebrate. Four growth-minded prompts ("what feels different now?"), then the golden star and a certificate.
5. Preview & share. A peek at Chapter 5 (Ready for the World) and a privacy-respecting, optional share.

Arrival & canvas, verbatim.

arrival: "Lensy: ...you learned to read them: the green lights and the red flags, the myths and the facts, the staged feed and the real moment."
canvas: "The Reading Relationships map lights up across a teen city at night...
your eleven stickers rise into the sky like a constellation."

Eleven victory laps.

Each replays a chapter truth through a different action (variable-cue retrieval), framed as a confident lap. Eight distinct mechanics, including a no-fail Green Light / Red Light branch, never the same twice in a row, never scored.

#	FROM	MECHANIC	THE VICTORY LAP
1	all	gallery	The constellation, tap any star to revisit its truth.
2	g24	branch	One more Green Light / Red Light, name the red flag of control (no-fail).
3	g28	swipe	Swipe up for every staged or faked thing you can see through.
4	g23	sort	Sort what spreads HIV from what truly doesn't.
5	g25	strike-rewrite	Flip a gender myth and write the truth.
6	g27	build	Build the five-D upstander toolkit.
7	g43	spot	Spot the manosphere funnel and the grift.
8	g22	sort	Sort the reliable fact from the myth.
9	g26	match	Match the equality myth to the truth that lifts everyone.
10	g40	branch	One more safe online read, spot the secrecy red flag (no-fail).
11	g21	sort	Sort the kind, true thing to tell yourself.

Mechanics used: gallery, branch, swipe, sort, strike-rewrite, build, spot, match. Tests, scores or buzzers: zero.

Look how clearly you see now.

The four reflections (non-judged, growth-minded)

- "Look how far you've come this chapter. What feels different about how you see relationships now?"
- "Which skill from this chapter are you most glad to have?"
- "When a relationship or something online feels off now, what do you reach for?"
- "What will you carry into the years just ahead?"

Every option is affirmed; the focus is growth and self-trust, not a right answer, the evidence-based way to build a teen's resilience and autonomy.

The graduation

Glyph. The golden reading-relationships-star crowns the constellation.

Certificate. "...You read the green lights and red flags of how people treat you, you hold the facts about bodies, contraception and HIV with calm confidence, you bust gender myths and stand up safely, you keep yourself safe online, and you see straight through a staged or faked feed. You've grown a great deal, and you did it yourself."

Sticker book. All eleven Chapter 4 stickers shine, topped by the golden star.

Preview & share (privacy-first). Next: Chapter 5, Ready for the World (15-18). And, because this age is very much the teen's own, the share is their call: "share one thing you're proud of with a grown-up you trust, or keep it for yourself, that's completely okay too."

How it ships.

- Schema. Capstone v1 (type "capstone"): arrival, canvasPayoff, threadsRecapped, recap[], playback[], reflect[], celebration, preview, share. Data file: SwipeEd — Capstone c4 Reading Relationships — Landing.json.
- Gate. Passed score_capstone.py on all eleven checks, including the literal "no test/score language" guard.
- gameld. capstone-ch4 — node.game === GameDone key === registry id.
- Gating. "—" : never gated; reached by completing the Chapter 4 spine.
- Reuse. Every truth and victory lap is pulled from the chapter's existing game libraries; no new content.
- Tracked. sync_master_tracker.py marks c4 capstone ✓.
- Reward. Sticker economy only; no coins, streaks or leaderboards.

The capstone promise. Consolidate the chapter's truths through spaced, varied, joyful retrieval; crown it with a celebration of growth; never make a teen feel judged. c1-c4 done; c5 (Ready for the World) is next.

Research basis: spaced retrieval practice & variable-cue retrieval; growth-mindset and celebrating growth and autonomy for teens (12-15) over grades. Next capstone: c5 (Ready for the World, ages 15-18).
